10 FIX-IT SKILLS

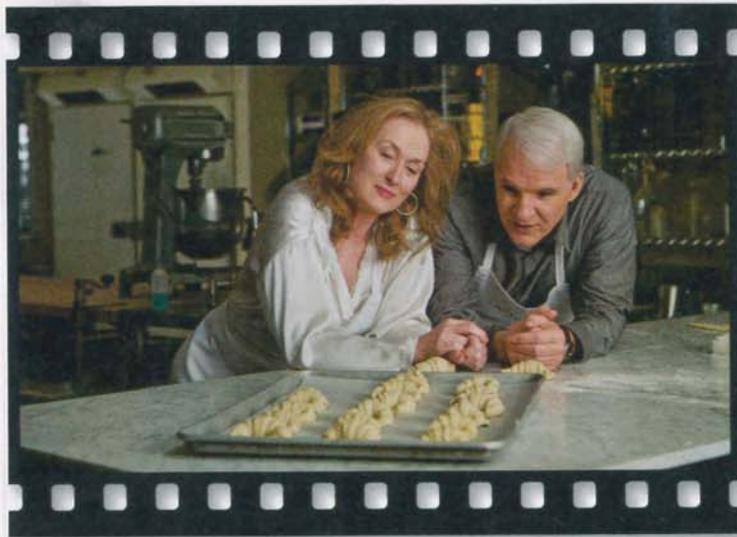

(Don't call the handyman)

The living room and kitchen from It's Complicated

steal this movie set

The pretty house from the 2009 romantic comedy It's Complicated is still copy-worthy!

Meryl Streep and Steve Martin talk pastries on set.

as a divorcée who's having an affair with her ex (Alec Baldwin) while dating her architect (Steve Martin), Meryl Streep's character faces a lot of, well, complicated situations. "We wanted her to have a living room where she could relax with friends and entertain," says set decorator Beth Rubino, who teamed up with production designer Jon Hutman. They surrounded a zinc-top coffee table with slipcovered furniture you can sink into. The kitchen (on page 70) has a bar-height island and a trio of stools for hanging out. "Meryl's character is a professional baker, so the space is also very functional," says Rubino. Pots and pans are hung on a rack, and open shelving puts plates and cake stands within easy reach.
